Two Most Important Things

When considering the choice of a banking connection, the two most important things are safety and service. You are sure of these two valuable factors at this Bank, which cordially invites your Checking Account.

NORTH NATIONAL BANK
Rockland, Maine

This Bank Is Older Than The City

Ten years before the Civil War, three years before Rockland became a city, the Rockland Bank, now the Rockland National, was incorporated.

During its 78 years of service this bank has witnessed many changes. It has seen Rockland grow to a city of more than 8,000 inhabitants, it has seen its merchants and manufacturers prosper and it has watched its own deposits increase to more than $3,600,000.

The Rockland National Bank has come through this more than three-quarters of a century with a record for safety and stability that is not surpassed by any bank in Maine.

Today, as a unit of Financial Institutions, Inc., it is even stronger than before. Back of this bank are combined resources of more than $67,000,000, the broad diversification that is the very essence of financial safety, and a policy of co-operation that means constant progress.

The Rockland National Bank invites new business on its record of safety, stability and service. It is keenly interested in Rockland's commercial and industrial progress and its officers will welcome opportunities to discuss proposed new enterprises with present or prospective depositors.

ON MY SET

Radio owners did not have to wait until next morning to read President Hoover's message to Congress. They heard a very faithful summary of it broadcast from several stations while it was being delivered at the Capitol. This is one of several reasons why so many persons are unwilling to be without a radio. Disinterestedly I may add that Rockland has some especially reliable dealers, handling the best of standard makes.

I had not heard from my friend Herbert K. Washburn of Portland for so long a time that I was beginning to be worried. Yesterday I was materially reminded that all was well when I received from him a bundle of literature which confirmed what I already knew—that he is not only a radio fan de luxe, but a humorist. Call on this former Thomaston boy at Colcord & Washburn's pharmacy, corner of Spring and Brackett streets, Portland, and see if I am not right.

The address of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, last night, gave to many a new insight on governmental affairs. Next Wednesday night the speaker will be President Green of the American Federation of Labor.

The Palm Olive hour was devoted last night to observance of its second anniversary. It's a popular feature.

LITTLE BROWN JUG

Part It Played In Old Time Hauling Bee At Hope

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I wonder if any of your readers ever attended an old time hauling bee. I mean a real old timer, such as I attended 72 years ago this fall. Although I was but a small boy at the time, every detail is fresh in my mind. A house was to be moved rather more than a mile—about half the distance up a steep hill. At that time New England rum played an important part at hauling bees, barn raisings, husking bees etc. It was 40 cents a gallon and was sold at most grocery stores. The owner of the house to be moved was a strong advocate of temperance, but it was a well known fact that his preaching did not agree with his practice. It had become noised about that this was to be a strictly temperance affair. At the appointed time, however, 20 pairs of oxen were assembled and attached to the house in two strings, each string headed by a veteran who had taken part in many affairs of the kind.

When all was in readiness, the "boss" stepped upon the cross-bar in front of the house and gave the order to straighten up in line. The order was obeyed but in a very listless manner.

Now all together! But the house did not start. The order was given a second time, but the building refused to "budge." After several ineffectual attempts the owner, becoming anxious, conferred with the "boss" as to the cause. He was informed in very few words. He still demurred, but finding the teamsters were in dead earnest he yielded and sent a messenger for a jug of the needful. The jug soon arrived and was passed down the two lines.

The order was again given to start. The teamsters clutched the road sticks with a firm hand, the oxen put their shoulders to the bows, and—she starts, she moves, she seems to feel!—and the building was landed half way up the hill at the first pull.

A halt was called to let the oxen get their breath. The friendly jug again made the rounds, the house was again started and in good time was landed on the spot. A repast of baked beans, brown bread, pumpkin pie, coffee, etc., was in readiness. There was enough and to spare, including us boys, after which all departed in good cheer for their separate homes.

Some years ago the house was torn down, moved to the shore of Hobb's Pond, rebuilt and is now occupied as a summer cottage. The oxen were all owned in the neighborhood. There are now but two pairs in town. Is the New England farmer better or worse off today than when that old time hauling bee took place?

HAD BUSY SEASON

Writes a Tenants Harbor correspondent:

"The last barge for the season has been loaded with paving blocks at Willard's Point and it concludes a shipment of three million blocks. Though it looked rather dull in the early part of the summer it has been one of the busiest seasons in the history of this place. But the season for paving cutting is over and the crew is gradually being shortened to meet the winter requirements. There are rumors to the effect that the job will run all winter but it will probably be with a small crew."

HERE'S OUR JOE

The Man Who Has Made Rockland An Important Movie Center

Under the caption "Meet the Boys" Public Opinion prints each issue one-minute biographies of managers of Public Theatres. In the current number is a picture of Joseph Dondis, manager of Strand Theatre, Rockland, and with it the following sketch:

Joseph Dondis, a Russian immigrant, who arrived in America in 1891 has hurdled many obstacles, in order to hold the many important positions he now possesses. Dondis is manager of the Strand Theatre in Rockland, Me. and is president of the

Joseph Dondis, Owner of Strand Theatre and Present Efficient Manager

Dondis Amusement Co., who own the property of the Strand. He is also vice president of the Rockland Amusement Co.

In 1902, he went to Boston to make his livelihood after working for his relatives, while going to school. He interested himself in odd jobs about the different hotels until 1904 when he came to Rockland, Me., to peddle stationery. Later he opened a stationery store for himself. He remained in this business for six years. From this business he entered the wholesale bottling works, then the fish business and novelty selling. With money garnered by his varied enterprises, Dondis purchased the plot where the present Strand is now located. He built and operated the theatre until April 1928 when Public and Mr. Dondis combined to form the Rockland Amusement Co. Mr. Dondis was retained as local manager. He is also president of the Somerset Theatres Inc., Skowhegan, associated with him in the project being Attorney Ensign Otis of this city and Blin W. Page of Skowhegan, who is president of First National Bank and Skowhegan Savings Bank. The New Strand will open for business Dec. 16 and is without doubt the finest constructed and equipped theatre in the State. It seats 1,000.

Joseph Dondis long ago gained the full confidence of the Rockland amusement-loving public. It admired his brave struggle as an independent manager, and is not slow to recognize that his knowledge of the game and his influence in motion picture circles is largely responsible for the present excellent service at Strand Theatre. He treats the public courteously and understandingly.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S MESSAGE

The Chief Topics Touched Upon Yesterday In His Address To Congress

TAX REDUCTION—"... Congress will be fully justified in giving the benefits of the prospective surpluses to the taxpayers... I recommend that the normal income tax rates applicable to the incomes of individuals for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 5, 3 and 1 1/2 per cent, to 4, 2 and 1 1/2 per cent, and that the tax on the incomes of corporations for the year 1929 be reduced from 12 to 11 per cent."

TARIFF—"No condition has arisen in my view to change the principles stated at the opening of the special session... It would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment... I have been most anxious that the broad principle of the flexible tariff as provided in the existing law should be preserved and its delays in action avoided by more expeditious methods of determining the costs of production at home and abroad."

LAW ENFORCEMENT—"Enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the 18th amendment is far from satisfactory and this is in part due to the inadequate organization of the administrative agencies of the Federal Government... There should be an immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the Federal Government by transfer to the Department of Justice of the Federal functions of detection and to a considerable degree of prosecution, which are now lodged in the Prohibition Bureau in the Treasury... The District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the Nation... Conditions (now) are far from perfect... If the citizen who is himself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear shall insist on selecting the particular laws which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country... The law-breaker, whoever he is, is the enemy of society."

BUSINESS—"The long upward trend of fundamental progress gave rise to over-optimism, as to profits, which translated into a wave of uncontrolled speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash... Fortunately the Federal Reserve System had taken measures to strengthen the position against the day when speculation would break, which... has carried the whole credit system through the crisis without impairment... Capital is now returning to the normal channels of business... I have instituted systematic, voluntary measures of cooperation with the business institution and with State and municipal authorities to make certain that fundamental businesses of the country shall continue as usual... I am convinced that through these measures we have reestablished confidence."

AGRICULTURE—"Responsible farm leaders have assured me that a large measure of confidence is returning to agriculture and that a feeling of optimism pervades that industry."

INSPECTING THE BALLOTS

Richardson's Majority of Seven Votes Being Weighed In the Balance, and Everybody Guessing

When this paper went to press the ballots cast in the city election Monday were being carefully scrutinized by Mayor James F. Carver and Charles M. Richardson, his Democratic opponent, to whom a certificate of election has been issued on the face of the returns.

A summary of the clerks' returns showed Mayor Carver to have 1913 votes and Mr. Richardson 1920—a difference of but seven. Word has come from several of the wards that there were discrepancies in the count and to satisfy all concerned Mayor Carver has asked for an inspection of the ballots. Mayor Carver is represented by Judge Frank B. Miller, who has counted ballots in Ward 4 almost since the Australian ballot system went into effect; while Mr. Richardson is represented by Elisha W. Pike. City Clerk Keene in offering the ballots for inspection is assisted by Herbert W. Keep, sworn in by Clerk Keene for that purpose. It is expected that the examination will last well into the night, owing to the heavy vote cast.

In view of the universal interest which will be felt in the matter it is well to remind voters that this is merely an inspection—not a recount.

The bulk of the ballots will be put aside by mutual agreement, while those which are in doubt will be put aside for the Court's determination. Should it appear that Mr. Richardson has a majority no further steps will be taken. Should it appear that Mayor Carver has been denied votes which legitimately belong to him, the courts will be appealed to for an official recount. This is a course to which no possible exception could be taken, for it will either prove that Mr. Richardson was elected, or will show that Mayor Carver was, if the Courts so construe the balance.

Mayor Carver is simply doing now what Walter T. Prescott, his Democratic opponent of four years ago did when Mayor Carver had a majority of four on the face of the returns. On that occasion Mayor Carver gained four votes on inspection, and Mr. Prescott did not pursue the matter.

Philip Howard, Democratic candidate for mayor, instituted recount proceedings when defeated by Charles M. Harrington, Republican by a very small margin. The courts upheld the election.

In nearly every close election, anywhere, there is a subsequent inspection of ballots. As a rule there is seldom a reversal, but the situation is always open to surprises.

A WORD TO MOTORISTS

Automobile number plates and operators licenses for 1930 are now being issued at the office of the State Highway Police, 722... Main street, Rockland, the work being done under the direction of Inspectors William Burgess and Levi Flint. As the force is a small one the work is necessarily slow and it behooves motorists to get their plates and licenses early. If they apply now they will find little delay; if they wait until the last week of December they will find themselves standing in line where the air is chilly. The place is corner of Main and James streets, and the logical time is now.

The new City Government organizes the first Monday in January.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS

Makes Bowdoin College a Christmas Present of a Check For $100,000

To his other munificent gifts to Bowdoin College, in the aggregate nearly half a million dollars, Cyrus H. K. Curtis has hung upon the College Christmas tree a check for $100,000. President Sills announced the gift at Wednesday morning chapel.

The income from Mr. Curtis' fund is to be used for payment of annuities and pensions to members of the faculty, whose retiring allowances were affected by the drastic cut in the grants from the Carnegie Foundation, as announced last spring.

The college had made provision for making good this deficiency on the contributory basis through a general appropriation from its fund which would have entailed a deficit of several thousand dollars in the budget for the year. Mr. Curtis' gift will take care of such deficiency this year, and will provide for income for the succeeding years and make replacement for the unexpected reduction in the Carnegie pensions.

Speaking of this gift to the undergraduates President Sills said that he hoped those among the student body who might become men of wealth in the future would hold themselves as a model donor like Mr. Curtis, who is as kindly and modest as he is generous.

GOT HIS MOOSE

M. P. Squires of Boston At the First Shot Bags An 11-Pointer

"This is the first time I have ever bought a hunting license of a lady, and it ought to bring me luck," said M. P. Squires, a Boston salesman, who together with Joseph Meyer arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Prescott at East Washington on Nov. 24, for the brief stay of two days. He was purchasing his non-resident hunting license of the town clerk.

"Here's hoping I win, but I don't expect to," he said, as the clerk handed him the scrap of paper entitling him to hunt big game. The clerk replied laughingly:

"This will surely be your lucky number."

Next morning about 6 o'clock Mr. Squires with several others started out. During the night a light snow had fallen, making hunting conditions ideal. About 7 o'clock, while standing alone in the lee of some soft-wood trees for warmth and considering which direction to take, a noise was heard and a huge bull moose trotted out into the open, a short distance from where the sportsman stood. Raising his gun to his shoulder Mr. Squires fired and to his surprise the animal dropped in his tracks.

The moose proved to be an 11-point animal of about 800 pounds weight, and when dressed off was found to be fat and in excellent condition. When Messrs. Squires and Meyer left on Wednesday morning for Massachusetts they carried as a trophy, besides moose meat, the head with its 11 unbroken points on the horns, to be mounted as a memento of a lucky two-days hunting trip in Maine.

"Another hunter."

A building on Tilson avenue owned by George M. Simmons, is being converted into a wholesale produce store, the proprietors of which will be Harry H. Brown of this city and Fred Hanley of Thomaston. Mr. Brown was formerly proprietor of a fruit and confectionery store at Rankin block, while Mr. Hanley was for a number of years in the employ of the Rockland Produce Co. It is a popular and energetic team, and friends prophesy the success of the new venture.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

THE CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE

Half a league, half a league,
Half a league onward,
All in the Valley of Death,
Rode the six hundred.
"Forward, the Light Brigade!"
Charge for the guns!" he said;
Into the Valley of Death,
Rode the six hundred.
"Forward, the Light Brigade!"
Was there a man dismayed?
Not though the soldier knew
Someone had blundered:
Their's not to make reply,
Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to do and die;
Into the Valley of Death,
Rode the six hundred.
Can't you right of them,
Can't you left of them,
Can't you behind them,
Can't you in front of them,
Volley'd and thunder'd,
Storm'd at with shot and shell,
Boldly they rode, and well,
Into the jaws of Death,
Into the mouth of Hell,
Rode the six hundred.
Flash'd all their sabres bare,
Flash'd as they turned in air,
Sabring the gunners there,
Charging an army, while
All the world wondered:
Plunged in the battery smoke,
Right thro' the line they broke,
Cossack and Russian
Reeled from the sabre stroke
Shatter'd and sunder'd:
Then they rode back, but not,
Not the six hundred.
Can't you right of them,
Can't you left of them,
Can't you behind them,
Can't you in front of them,
Volley'd and thunder'd,
Storm'd at with shot and shell,
While horse and hero fell,
They that had fought so well,
Came thro' the jaws of Death,
Back from the mouth of Hell,
All that was left of them,
Left of six hundred.

When can their glory fade?
O, the wild charge they made,
All the world wondered.
Honor the charge they made,
Honor the Light Brigade,
Noble six hundred!
—Alfred Tennyson.

ROCKLAND SAVINGS BANK

The Courier-Gazette

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Me., Dec. 5, 1929.
Personally appeared Frank S. LeDuc who on oath declared that he is Pressman in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Dec. 3, 1929, there was printed a total of 6250 copies.
Before me, FRANK B. MILLER,
Notary Public.

Sing unto the Lord, praise ye the Lord; for he hath delivered the soul of the poor from the hand of the evil doers.—Jeremiah 20:13.

The results of election day suggest that there remains something yet to be learned about a reasonable obligation of the voter to the political party with which he (and she) has allied himself. We are a government of parties, and that being so, organization is necessary. If the Republicans of Rockland had registered their normal strength in Monday's balloting they could easily have continued to give direction to public affairs, under full party responsibility and with wholesome retention of effective party organization, a thing rightfully to be desired in a year when elections of State and National officials are to be held. In particular we should regret to see the women voters lag-gard with respect to this plain civic responsibility. The woman who, having a vote, neglects to deposit it in the ballot-box, loses by that much her share in the splendid sovereignty of citizenship with which the laws of her country have invested her.

The potentiality of regular saving is illustrated this week, when the various banks of Knox County release into the local channels of trade a munificent sum, exceeding in amount one hundred thousand dollars. One hundred thousand blooming, smiling dollars with which to accelerate the wheels of holiday business and make glad the hearts that quicken at the approach and the visible manifestation of Christmas Day. We don't know who the man was that had the first glimpse of this Christmas Club idea, but he was a genius and deserves immortality. It has taught to great bodies of people what small savings can accomplish against the rainy day, and inculcated a spirit of thrift where one time thriftless governed. More power to the Christmas Club and may the prosperity of it steadily widen.

The trustees of the Washington church which President and Mrs. Hoover attend, in abolishing the Sunday passing of the collection plate, are doing away with a custom that so far as we know is coeval with the Christian church itself. Suggesting that visitors attracted to the meeting house by reason of the presence of the Hoovers felt called upon to make liberal contributions, the trustees decided that under the circumstances passing the plate lent an air of commercialism which they thought best to dispel. Hence no more passing the plate, and church members will pay their contributions direct to the treasurer. We question if this startling innovation in the average church program of finances could be made to work, for it must entirely eliminate the transient worshiper who drops his nickel into the plate and who could scarcely be counted upon to hunt out the church treasurer for the privilege of registering that contribution.

In his recent address over radio, Merle Thorpe, editor of the official publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared that this country had reached its high state of prosperity through the most advanced understanding of advertising the world has ever known. "It amazes other countries," he said. "They do not understand that our advertising goes farther than mere counter pushing, than mere announcement of place where to buy and the price. It goes much deeper than that. The American conception of advertising is to arouse desires and stimulate wants, to make people dissatisfied with the old and out of date, and by constant iteration to send them out to work harder to get the latest model, whether that model be an ice box or a rug, or a new home." We think we may refer to the local situation as illustrating certain of the phases to which the speaker alludes. The past twenty-five years has seen developed upon the part of Rockland business houses an employment of advertising methods far exceeding the custom of former years. We may at any time point to the columns of this paper for displayed evidence, not only of faith in the efficacy of newspaper publicity, but as well the exercise of an art in the preparation of advertisements that suggests careful study on the part of the advertiser, that his investment in that form of publicity may yield him a proper return.

The merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce has sent the following notice to members: "The Yuletide season has rolled around again, bringing with it that air of festive preparation which means Christmas. May we urge the merchants to make their stores as Christmasy as possible with outside decorations and to do this early? By all cooperating at their individual establishments we will be able to present an effective Christmas picture to our shoppers. The stores are to be open evenings, beginning Thursday, Dec. 19 through Dec. 24."

The Stonington Furniture Co.'s store at Stonington was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Frank Collins of the Rockland store, who was working temporarily at the Stonington branch completed his duties there at 8:30 p. m. and there was no sign of fire when he left. At 9:20 a citizen looking into the display window saw no fire. Ten minutes later the building was ablaze. The Stonington Fire Department did excellent work in confining the blaze to this building, but the furniture company's loss was practically total, with only partial insurance.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Abbie E. Carlin, who passed away Dec. 5, 1927.
We do not forget you nor do we intend. We think of you often, and will to the end; gone and forgotten by some you may be, But dear to our memory you ever will be.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Post

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Adelbert M. Smalley who passed away Dec. 5, 1928.
The midnight stars are gleaming
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeping without dreaming
Lies the one we could not save;
In dreams we see his dear sweet face,
And kiss his cold, cold brow,
And whisper, as we loved him then,
We love his memory now.

Give MOTHER What She Really Wants This Christmas ~

a Few Minutes Out of the Busy Day Just for HERSELF

$195 Cash—$210 Time

Our stores carry two of the most widely known electric ranges on the market... the Hotpoint and Universal, to satisfy the most discriminating tastes in style, size or color combinations.

Both the Universal and the Hotpoint are good reliable ranges. People's taste varies and for that reason some prefer one model to that of the other; were they to choose either they will be equally satisfied.

The model pictured here has the time and temperature control features which assure you of the same uniform results every time; it comes in gray enamel with white porcelain front. Sells regularly for $265, special Christmas price of $195, installed.

In the busy hubbub of the average family what Mother would not throw up her hands joyfully and thank any member of her family for providing a way whereby she could save time, tedious routine, labor and ACTUALLY GIVE HER A FEW EXTRA MINUTES FOR HERSELF!

Wouldn't it be about the best Christmas present that could be given? Surely one which would show the kindness of the giver in a way that scarcely any other gift would.

Every time an electrical appliance is added to the family group some work is made easier, quicker, and better AND IN THE END GIVES A LITTLE MORE LEISURE. If You don't believe it ask the woman who has an electric washer. And so it is with the other electrical appliances.

This year our stores are featuring two major appliances for the thoughtful giver—two appliances that mean more comfort, more leisure and WHICH WILL MAKE MOTHER HAPPIER AND THE HOME A BETTER PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE—an Electric Range and Electric Water Heater.

$195 Cash—$210 Time

With the modern Hotpoint automatic electric range shown above, Mother can place a complete meal in the oven. Then it takes but ten seconds to set the automatic electric timer for the time cooking is to start and stop, and the automatic temperature control for the exact heat to be maintained during the cooking. Then she can leave the kitchen or the house for all day. When she returns, dinner will be scientifically cooked to perfection and ready to serve. IT'S LIKE HAVING A MAID AT NO COST! Regularly sells for $265. Our special Christmas price at $195, installed.

Electrically Heated HOT WATER

Ready at Mother's Finger Tips 24 hours a day

And what better gift than a Sepco Electric Water Heater that provides a continuous supply of hot water (and it is HOT—150 degrees F.) 24 hours a day.

Surely a gift that gives Mother as well as many other members of the family, a generous supply of hot water for the bath, dishes, washing and the many other uses in the home, would be a most welcome gift.

The Sepco automatic is "the finest electric hot water system that I have ever known, I would not ask for anything better" so say nearly 300 customers who now use them in our territory.

The guaranteed copper tank is fully enclosed with a granulated cork insulation which prevents the least possible radiation of heat to the outside which means a big saving.

You need never give a thought as to whether the water is hot for with the Sepco on the job—IT IS SURE TO BE!

HAS AN ENVIABLE RECORD

Battery E of Camden, Though a Youngster, Has Many Prizes To Prove Prowess

(By Lieut. S. E. Willard)

In 1855 a company of Light Infantry was organized at Camden and assigned to the 3d Division (Area). This was only one of the many that were formed during the period from 1775 to 1861 as all citizens were required to enroll in the militia under the military law.

The history of the company organized in 1855 can be traced only for a short time as there were many units and individuals called to Federal service at the beginning of the Civil War. Of these units and of the units called during the Spanish War 302d company became Battery E of the regiment. This designation still stands. Due to the battery's youth there is under way an historical research to determine if the history of the old 5th company, C.A. Maine National Guard can be made perpetuate through E Battery. This has been done with many other old historical units and since the 5th was one of the oldest military organizations of the State of Maine it seems logical to permit E Battery to carry it on.

The old 5th was organized in 1854 as E Company, 1st Regiment. It

Capt. Carlton H. Hammond of Battery E, Camden

2d Lieut. Shirley Shute, Battery E, Camden

there is no historical record connecting them with the present 240th C.A. The first sign of a unit belonging to that regiment was in 1929 when the present Battery was organized as the 3d Co. C. A. Maine National Guard E Battery which was stationed in an old military area is the youngest member in history of the batteries assigned to the 240th C.A.

In January, 1922, the 3d company became the 302d company, and in June the same year became a part of the 1st Coast Defense Command, Maine National Guard (the present 240th). In September, 1923, the 1st C.D.C. became the 240th C.A. and the fought in the Civil War with the 1st, 16th and 29th Infantry (now 240th C.A.) It was reorganized in 1872 as the Montgomery Guards (Portland) and in 1880 rejoined the 1st Infantry as Company E. Although there seem to be no connecting records, there is an indication that the Montgomery Guards may have been a reorganization of the Portland Rifle Guards (or Corps) which was organized in 1810. The Portland Guards is the most written about unit around Portland prior to the Civil War, but there is no record of its reorganization after the war.

The Montgomery Guards saw service at Chickamauga Park, Ga., during the Spanish War and with the 3rd Artillery (C.A.) during the World War. It was demobilized at Camp Devens in March, 1919, and has not since been reorganized.

At Camden, after organization in 1921 Captain William G. Stover commanded the 3d company until 1923. Capt. Alva L. Anderson, followed by Capt. Maurice W. Greenleaf, its commander until 1926, when Capt. Richard E. Saville assumed command. Capt. Saville was in command until November, 1923, when he was relieved to take command of Battery G at Rockland.

During its short life Battery E has made an enviable record as an outstanding military organization, winning much praise for its efficiency and for its able ability along athletic lines. Its rifle team is always on hand at the State shoot in Auburn, upholding the small arms records of the Maine Coast Artillery. At the annual encampments Battery E has had great success with 10-inch rifles and with the 12-inch disappearing guns, winning the gunnery cup (12-inch guns) in 1928. It was entitled to wear the red "E" on the uniform left sleeve for one year, showing that the battery had received the rating of "Excellent" from the office of the chief of Coast Artillery. Its size and strength has always been outstanding showing the high degree of loyalty and morale of the men making up the command.

Its present organization follows:

Battery E, Camden

Captain—Carlton H. Hammond, commanding battery.
Second Lieutenants—George W. Hardy, administration officer and Shirley A. Shute, executive and supply officer.
First Sergeant—Martin C. Richards.
Sergeants—Kenneth R. Brown, mess sergeant; Joseph G. Leonard, Clarence H. Pendleton, Albert J. Talbot, supply sergeant.

The Red Cross

RED CROSS NURSES

Membership in the Nursing Service of the American Red Cross is based solely upon professional qualifications, and requires no initial fee. Enrollment goes on the year around. It should be coveted by every nurse. This Nursing Service provides a Reserve for the Army and Navy Nurse Corps. This is provided primarily for ultimate disaster-war. In actual practice, however, the nursing service cooperates at all times with the government nursing services and reminds nurses at intervals of the great importance of maintaining these services at maximum readiness for ultimate disaster-war. In actual practice, however, the nursing service cooperates at all times with the government nursing services and reminds nurses at intervals of the great importance of maintaining these services at maximum readiness for ultimate disaster-war.

Requirements for joining the nursing service:

Nursing Education: The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited school for nurses, having at least a daily average of fifty patients during the applicant's training period. Graduates not having this requirement may meet it by affiliation or post-graduate work of six months' in a general hospital which does meet this requirement.

Registration: In states where registration is required by law, the nurse applying for enrollment in the Red Cross must be registered.

Affiliation: The applicant must be a member of the American Nurses Association by affiliation through her alumnae, district and state associations.

Citizenship: A nurse applying for enrollment must be a citizen of the United States. An applicant born in this country is a citizen, regardless of her father's nationality.

Age Limit: Applicants must be at least 21 and not over 45 years.

Married Nurses: Married nurses are not eligible for general enrollment in the Red Cross nursing service.

Physical Examination: A certificate must be filed with the enrollment application. Immunization against typhoid, para-typhoid, and smallpox is also required when an applicant is assigned to service of a nature which renders such precautionary measures desirable.

Endorsement: Each applicant must be accompanied by a credential endorsed preferably by the present superintendent of the training school from which she graduated, or by one under whom she trained. This credential will be obtained by the local committee on Red Cross nursing service which will complete the papers.

STAGE ARTIST VISITS US

Percy Oakes, Exponent of Modern Dancing, Makes Bookings For Famous Theatrical Stars

There is being entertained in Rockland this week a distinguished member of the theatrical profession, in the person of Percy Oakes of New York, an artists representative, who speaks very eloquently of the 200 stars concerned in his bookings, and very modestly, if at all, concerning his own remarkable career as an exponent of modern dancing.

Mr. Oakes is the guest here of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Bishop, Beach street, their daughter, Louise Bickford Sylvester being one of the artists whom he represents in a managerial capacity. He also speaks modestly of the fact that he has won considerable fame in golf, being the holder of the Marcus Loew trophy in the N.Y.A. tournament, and the holder of numerous other trophies which have come to him in the old moments that he has been able to spend on the links.

Most famous of the artists represented in Mr. Oakes' clientele; perhaps, is the famous Japanese motion picture star Sessue Hayakawa, who until recent years, was seen regularly on the Rockland screen. Sessue is to return to the screen next spring but under what management has not been determined, for he has several offers under consideration—as might be expected.

At present he is appearing in a two-person vaudeville sketch and is to be at Strand Theatre, Portland, the week of Dec. 16. Mr. Oakes present visit to Rockland was made possible by the fact that he came to Portland on business connected with the Sessue engagement.

Among other artists represented by Manager Oakes may be mentioned Al Moore, organizer of the United States Navy Band, who was also guest conductor at the opening of Keith's Memorial Theatre, Boston; Beth Chellis, who is just back from a 24 weeks' engagement in London; Annette Kellerman, "who needs no introduction;" Helen Wehrle, who starred two seasons in George White's "Scandals," and who was two seasons at the Ambassador Club in Paris and with the Heller Revue in Germany; Berk and Saun singing and dancing comedians, who were eight weeks at the Coliseum in London. Among the artists whom he booked last season were Frances X. Bushman, Jr., and Karyl Norman. Drama, music, motion pictures, talking pictures and vaudeville all find a place in the bookings made by this energetic manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakes (Pamela de Lour) have scored a wonderful success as exponents of modern dancing, and were among the very first couples to demonstrate the tango, which created such a sensation in the dancing world.

Mr. Oakes has done professional dancing for 20 years—ball room dancing, acrobatic dancing, eccentric dancing, and the like. He was featured with Mizzi in "The Magic Ring" for 10 weeks at the Colonial Theatre in Boston and in New York; was featured in "Flora Bella" was with Annette Kellerman one season; was with Oliver Morosco in all of the latter revivals on the West Coast; and spent one season in Bermuda.

Mr. Oakes played long engagements at some of the world's leading hotels, among them the Palace in San Francisco and the Coconut Grove, and the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City. When he went to fulfill his first engagement at Palace Theatre in New York he had reached that goal to which all artists aspire—the top rung of the ladder, to use a homely simile. Mrs. Oakes and he have been dancing partners 16 years, their stage designation being Oakes and De Lour.

Ordinarily the theatrical profession leaves early stamp of the strain to which the artist is constantly subjected, but the years have dealt gently with Mr. Oakes, to whom youth seems no far cry as far as appearances go. The charm of his manner makes one instantly his friend.

He found Rockland for his first visit under a thin blanket of snow, and the temperature much nearer the cipher mark than he has been accustomed to, but theatrical stars, even if they are temperamental (which Mr. Oakes appears not to be) take things philosophically, and Mr. Oakes' first act was to go over the golf course at the Country Club. He has slept liberally, and has derived enjoyment from his first real rest in a long time.

Dr. E. B. Howard is in Boston for the week.

Don't wait for Miss Bicknell to move her goods down town because she may not do it. Her gifts are worth the walk to 12 Knox St.—adv.

Mrs. Bloop—"Does your car have a worm drive?"

Mrs. Bloop—"Yes, but I tell him where to drive."

A QUESTION (For The Courier-Gazette)

Thanksgiving Day is over. Our work resumed once more. The day rose one a memory. Like others gone before. But can we say in truth As new we backward look, We were truly thankful. For the blessings that we took From an all-wise Father Each day of the year. Took as natural sequence To our living here? Or did we, like the Pilgrims That first Thanksgiving Day, Give grateful thanks to God above For the joys that came our way. Clara S. Overlook Washington, Me.

The real Christmas spirit is expressed in Christmas cards and fancy boxes that are different. You'll find them at Crie's Gift Shop.—adv.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Alden A. Stover has purchased the Andrew Coffey bungalow on Granite street and will move into that cozy new home within a few days.

New entries at the Rockland Commercial College are Miss Marjorie Whigham of this city, in the day school; and Miss Annette Segal, also of Rockland, in the night school.

Among the divorce cases to be heard in court at Portland is that of Ella A. Wotton of Portland vs. Ernest S. Wotton of Rockland. They were married in this city Sept. 6, 1927.

Main street is doing up somewhat for the Christmas trade, the lead having been taken by the Central Maine Power Company, whose office front is now gay with evergreen and electric lights.

The auxiliary of Winslow-Holbrook Post, A.L., is to conduct a Christmas sale of various fancy work, candy, etc., at Legion hall Saturday afternoon, Dec. 14, followed by a baked bean supper.

Sam Morrill, of Lewiston, one of the best known weather prophets in Maine not only paints a rather gloomy picture of weather conditions for December, but also predicts earth tremors between the 21st and 24th.

Mrs. Belle Frost, Mrs. Florence Philbrook, Mrs. Hester Chase, Mrs. Abbie Campbell and Mrs. Hattie Davies of Golden Rod Chapter, O.E.S., attended the funeral services of Mrs. Harriet Payson in Warren yesterday.

Golden Rod Chapter, O.E.S., has been invited to visit Wivurnia Chapter at Waldoboro Tuesday evening for supper and entertainment. All who plan to attend are requested to notify Mrs. Belle Frost, worthy matron, not later than Saturday.

The articles by A. F. Dunton of Hope concerning the vessel which was built on the mountain by Lincolnville brothers, has attracted much attention, and has been widely copied. Mr. Dunton informs us that its name was Forest.

Rear Admiral George H. Rock, who often came to Rockland with the Naval Trial Board, and who was for a time superintendent naval constructor at the Bath Iron Works, has been appointed chief constructor of the United States Navy, and chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair.

"Ish" Patterson, well known in local sporting circles as a boxer and jockey was injured a few days ago in Belfast when a Bangor car struck his express wagon and threw him off, inflicting a bad cut on the head. He was taken to the hospital, but returned home after a number of stitches had been taken.

"They Had to See Paris," is proving to be the surprise package of the cinema year. This picture, starring Will Rogers, the world's most famous humorist, and Irene Rich, tells of an American who strikes it rich in oil. Going to Paris he falls into complications that make this one of the season's very best comedy features. Playing next Monday and Tuesday at Park Theatre.

The Maine Central wharf at Bucksport, which has been used by the Eastern Steamship Lines for their boat landing, has been sold to the Seaboard Paper Company, which is to erect a large mill in that town. The steamship company owns some land just east of this property, and it is hinted that it probably will build a new pier on this tract.

Many of those names in the New England Roller Polo League are familiar to the Rockland fans, who sigh vainly as they think what good sport they are missing because there is no building in Rockland adapted to roller skating. Some day the roller skating fever is going to hit this city again, good and hard.

Members of the Sea View Garage staff, with E. H. and R. E. Philbrick, Zone Manager Don Allen and William McClurg of the Motor Accounting Co. as guests of honor, dined Monday night at Roy McConchie's Ash Point, doing ample justice to the chicken and shore dinners. There were 20 in the party and they made a merry evening of it. Tuesday night the women of the staff—Miss Helen Clark and Miss Victoria Curry had their in-lings—in the form of a chicken dinner at the Park Street Grill.

Blue Bonnet Troop, Girl Scouts, met Monday in the Universalist vestry, when the second class test was passed by Evelyn Pietrosky, Elise Howard, Avis Lovejoy and Mary Stockbridge under the supervision of Mrs. Ruth Ellingwood, Mrs. Maud Elidgett, Lieut. Mary Lawry and Captain Beverage. Other girls in the troop are working for the cooking badge, musician's badge, child nursing badge, and others. The troop is to have a hike Saturday if pleasant, meeting at the home of Mrs. Beverage at 1:30 sharp.

Writing from Miami, Fla. under date of Nov. 28, G. K. Leonard says: "The best route South follows Route No. 1 to Raleigh, N. C. From Raleigh follow No. 21 to Fayetteville, then follow No. 17 to Charleston and Jacksonville. At Jacksonville No. 1 continues down the East Coast to Miami, which is the only real city in the South. The roads are excellent and are paved all the way excepting a few miles of very good dirt road, with no detours. This route measures 1700 miles from Boston to Miami and should be covered in three days."

John W. Watts and Harry Booth returned Tuesday from a hunting trip at Molasses Pond. Johnny bagged a fine deer. It looks like a semi-albino, but it is possible that the white spots were caused by the fright the deer received when it saw Mr. Watts aiming at it.

Rev. Martin Storms, Maurice Hall, Veto Manone and Arnold Gupit, al of Higgins Classical Institute took a flight Monday from Curtis flying field, their first experience in the air. Young Arnold wasn't sure they would ever reach earth again but Veto said, "Sure we will, but pennies always return."

Church family night at Pratt M. E. Church Tuesday had its usual large attendance. A. W. Gregory, a member of the State Prison Commission, gave a 25 minute address on "Some Phases of Prison Reform," which was listened to with much interest, and it is proposed at a later meeting to have the subject re-opened for an informal discussion. The devotional service had for its topic "How Jesus Met Opposition." There will be no church family night supper next Tuesday due to the supper Wednesday in connection with the annual fair.

When the Mae Edwards Players came to the Belfast Opera House next week, in the list of actors will be Miss Elena B. Shute, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. L. Shute of Belfast. Miss Shute is a graduate of the Crosby High School, later taking a course in dramatics at the New England Conservatory of Music. Her appearance in leading roles will serve as a big drawing card in her native city. Mrs. Shute is remembered as Miss Helen Bacheider of Rockland.

Little Marie Berry, the 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Berry 2d of this city, has the distinction of being the youngest passenger ever conveyed on an airplane ride by "Bill" Winicapaw. The event took place last Friday when Marie accompanied her parents and guests Mr. and Mrs. A. Dalgren of Philadelphia on a flying trip to Camden in Mr. Winicapaw's amphibian. Marie seemed more thrilled over the occasion than her elders, but showing no uneasiness or fright.

Members of Chapin Class and guests, numbering 50 or more, tendered a supper and informal reception Tuesday evening in the Universalist vestry for Mrs. C. A. Knickerbocker and daughter Constance who leave later in the month to make their home in Waterville. The tables were decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, the main feature being tiny Christmas trees hung with tinsel and gay baubles. The supper menu, under the supervision of Mrs. Minnie Cross, afforded fruit salad, meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, hot rolls, cake, coffee, etc. Popular songs of the day were sung while at table, with Mrs. Katherine Veazie leading. The men folks also presented songs, the voice of Rev. Hal G. Kearns standing out by its excellence. Mrs. Carrie Palmer, president of the class, presented a handsome pen set to Mrs.

WITH THE BOWLERS

Three teams are now tied for first honors in the City League at Carr's alleys, although Cement No. 1 has the largest pinfall. The Kickapoo maintains a clear lead in the County League but the Thomaston K. of P. team is not far behind in pinfall. The respective standings:

City League	Won	Lost	T.P.F.
Federals	5	11	529
Cement No. 1	5	11	542
Central Maine	5	11	532
Burpee Furniture	9	7	510

Cement No. 2	6	6	2982
Water Co.	5	7	3550
A. & P. Co.	5	7	3766
Sheep Skinners	8	4	2729

In the City League Tuesday night the Dark Horses showed their superiority over electricity by defeating the Street Railway 134 pins. Jacobs must have been celebrating his birthday for he piled up a total of 322. Lane was high man for the broomsticks. The summary:

Dark Horses—Ireland, 253; Newbert, 269; Williams, 230; Jacobs, 322; Smalley, 263; total, 1337.

In the County League Tuesday night Cement No. 2 plastered the Thomaston Knights of Pythias with defeat to the extent of 111 pins. Robbins was the unsunderbuckling cent with a string of 130 and a total of 317. The summary:

Cement No. 2—Stockford, 252; Bickford, 245; Wishman, 260; Frost, 237; Robbins, 317; total 1381.

K. of P.—Lindsey, 257; Burnham, 264; Closson, 243; Smalley, 236; Stone, 270; total, 1270.

Cement No. 1 defeated the Federals 11 pins at Carr's alleys last night. Summary in Saturday issue.

PARK THEATRE

The jazz band draws out the classical strains of the violin! This occurrence, epitomizing the spirit of the Old World as contrasted with the New, forms the basis of the interesting story of "Is Everybody Happy?" playing Friday and Saturday with Ted Lewis, famous "high-hatted" tragedian of jazz, as the star. This is Mr. Lewis' screen debut. Ted, accompanied by his mother and father, is pictured as a young emigrant on his way to America, where the father, long a musician of the old school, hopes to see the son follow in his footsteps as a devotee of the classics. Instead, he followed jazz and the father's heart was broken. Of course, in the end, everybody is happy. In this remarkable singing-talking dancing picture, Ann Pennington is featured in four dances. She is the ravishing dancer who many complained was not sufficiently featured in "Gold Diggers of Broadway." She will appear to her best advantage in her dances, two of which are original.

The picture playing at the Park Theatre today is "Jealousy," an all-talking drama featuring Jeanne Eagels and Frederic March.—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

Friday and Saturday will witness George Bancroft's latest role, that of a swaggering, two-fisted gunman, in many ways different from any of his recent characterizations. For in "The Mighty," his new all-talking picture, Bancroft overcomes the handicap of an criminal environment through the love of a beautiful girl who, secretly knowing much of his past life, continues to have faith in him. The process of his regeneration is slow, but it is real, convincing and believable. And such penetrating delineation of character reveals Bancroft at his very best. For the vivid personality of George Bancroft, combined with his exceptional histrionic ability, enables him to move with convincing, vivid interest through one of the most amazing and exciting stories of the season. It is a role made to order for Bancroft and this splendid actor is more than equal to the occasion.

Playing opposite Bancroft, and giving one of the finest performances of her career, is Esther Ralston. Warner Oland, who recently played the leading role in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," is cast in "The Mighty," as an insidious gang leader, the master mind of Bancroft's old gang. Of course, Oland is excellently cast and gives a particularly effective performance.—adv.

A PORTLAND VIEW

As To the Slaughter of Moose Down Here In Knox County

(Portland Evening Express)

The moose season in Maine closed Saturday night and we will soon be setting an accounting from the fish and game department of the number of these animals that were killed in the counties where it was legally permissible to hunt them. As far as newspaper report went there were no indications of an excessive slaughter and there has been cause for hope that perhaps the experiment was proving a success after all. But right on the eve of the resumption of close time came the alarming reports of the wholesale slaughter of cow and calf moose in Knox County. It was said that more than 26 illegal killings had been reported within a week.

That there would be some illegal killings, if moose hunting was allowed at all, was anticipated, but if the Knox County reports are true there has been organized slaughter on the part of the pot hunters there. The authorities are investigating and it is expected that there will be some arrests, as there should be. But the pulling of these illegal hunters will not bring back to life the 26 or more cow and calf moose that have been shot.

Raiders like this on moose kind form one of the chief objections to any time on these animals. The law says that only full grown male moose can be legally killed. If that law could be enforced with even reasonable strictness, it is quite probable that allowing a week of shooting would do no particular harm. But the legal right to kill bull moose adds vastly to the difficulty of protecting the females and the young. In the first place the best intentioned hunters will make mistakes occasionally, for there cannot always be deliberation in taking a shot and pulling a trigger on an animal as wild and shy as these great beasts are.

Moose will be killed illegally by mistake when it is permissible to shoot any, but that is not the principal trouble. That comes from the fact that any open time makes it the more easy to conceal illegal killings. If it is not open when an animal is cut up there is no way of telling the sex of the same or accurately determining the age.

If open time is to lead to the slaughter reported from Knox County there is only one thing to do and that is to have more open time. Otherwise there will soon be no moose in Maine.

THE SEASON'S TOLL

Three Killed and Nine Wounded During Bird and Deer Hunting Period

The toll of human life taken by hunting accidents this year was three dead and nine injured, according to the inland Fisheries and Game commission. The accidents included drowning and shootings from Sept. 15, when the bird season opened, to the close of the deer season.

Charles Penny, 73, of Mechanics Falls, was shot to death by an unknown person in Barr's woods, Mechanics Falls, Nov. 27.

Mrs. Anna Melanis, 35, Ellsworth, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun from which a bullet was being extracted by Ralph Carter, also of Ellsworth, it was alleged. The accident occurred Sept. 29.

Floyd Drake, 22, of Passadunk, drowned when his canoe overturned while duck hunting in the Penobscot river Sept. 17.

B. & M. WILL HELP

Joins In Hoover Plan To Stabilize Business and Industry

The Boston and Maine Railroad has made immediate response to President Hoover's appeal for major construction projects to stabilize business and industry. Acting President Perkins stated that work has already been started on several large projects which, with other extensive improvements actively under way involve expenditures aggregating $9,000,000. Employment of several thousand men is afforded by this fall and winter construction program of the Boston and Maine.

"Work will be continued just as long as weather permits," Mr. Perkins said "in order to carry out fully President Hoover's plan for stabilization."

The projects include several which have been moved from the 1930 budget, together with some on which work ordinarily would have begun to taper off at this season. The Boston and Maine has already spent approximately $22,000,000 on its work of modernization this year, the greatest year of improvement expenditures in its history.

WORDS from a WANDERER by Harry A. Daniels

The decline in automobile production, which began as far back as last May, following the all time record month of April, continued in September, and also showed a decrease in October. From an output last January of 400,000 cars, the increase was remarkable up until April, when the industry turned out a total of 621,000 passenger cars and trucks. However, from that time, there has been a steady decrease in production and sale, and September fell off more than 200,000 cars, that is, 200,000 less than the bumper month of April.

On the whole year, the output will be greater than in 1928. Great things are expected by the manufacturers in 1930, and preparations are already being made for greater activities than were noted in the spring months of this year.

The most serious problem just now is the used car problem, and the future does not seem to hold much relief. In the great rush this year to make and sell new cars, the manufacturers lost sight of the used car factor and it has now become serious. Conditions regarding used cars are acute. More acute in the larger cities than in other communities. Throughout this whole year the used car market has been handicapped and burdened with the competition of an unprecedented production and sale, under high pressure of new, low-priced cars. This retarded the sale of used cars, and increased the dealers' stocks as never before.

In their anxiety to make sales of new cars, many dealers discovered when too late that too great a value had been placed by them on the used car. The sale of the new car was made, but dealers are now overloaded with used cars that they cannot move. And unless the manufacturers curtail the output of new cars and give the used car the chance at the market, this situation will become gradually worse, used cars will become a drug on the market, and dealers will not take them in as part payment for new cars. Then what happens?

Certainly there are many men who cannot afford to throw away their car every spring just to keep up a record output for new cars. Used cars should be a good buy this coming winter and spring, and they are going to get cheaper all the time. That makes two good bargains right at this time. Sound investment stocks paying good dividends, and good used cars from reliable dealers who have rebuilt them.

A brand new method of transmission has appeared in London and will shortly be installed on all foreign motor cars. There are seven speeds (instead of our three forward), and the arrangement is such that you change from one speed to another without throwing the clutch. There is no neutral between speeds. The load is never dropped. Only one sliding gear is used, and this gear moves in a straight line backward and forward. A shift can be made at any rate of speed with perfect mesh. The gear has had severe tests on printing presses and all sorts of heavy machinery connected with motors and shifts have been made with perfect mesh, on a straight slide, up to 1,000 revolutions a minute. This new transmission will be installed in motor cars with seven speeds forward. That should satisfy most anyone.

At this season we are offered moose steaks and reindeer meat at the markets. Tremendous quantities of reindeer meat are now shipped from the northwest to eastern markets. These large herds in Alaska all grew from a small herd brought from Siberia in 1889, to help the Eskimo of the northern coast of Alaska, who were in danger of starving through the loss of food and unseasonable habits. The reindeer is not only a beast of burden, but a source of food and clothing as well. The herds are now of tremendous size and many thousands of the animals are killed each season.

FRANKLIN TRUSSELL Leading Citizen of Port Clyde Who Had Filled Many Offices

Franklin Trussell, who died Nov. 19, was born in Port Clyde, July 9, 1849, the son of Capt. Samuel and Caroline Hupper Trussell. He was educated in the town schools and at Maine State Seminary, Lewiston. March 27, 1880, he married Miss Alice T. Richardson. Mr. Trussell was a well-read man and always kept abreast of the times. Politically he was a life-long Democrat. Early in life he became interested in town, state and national affairs. He was modest and unassuming, but the people soon learned his worth and for many years he served the town of St. George with honor as moderator and selectman. He was also town auditor one term. From 1887 to 1891 he served as county commissioner. He represented the Democratic party of his district in the State Legislature for three sessions, 1876, 1877 and 1891. He was a justice of the peace and notary public for many years.

While yet a young man Mr. Trussell became partner with his father in general store and ship-chandlery, later adding coal trade, fishery business and real estate. All of his public, private and business life was characterized by distinction, accuracy, modesty and honor. But it was not in these alone that he excelled. In his 12th year he accepted Christ as his Saviour and became his humble follower, serving him loyally and faithfully as a member of the Second Baptist Church. He was early given a class of young people to teach and from that time on he taught a Sunday school class until failing health caused him to resign two years ago. He served as deacon for many years. He was always in the church services on Sunday and mid-week, to stay up the pastor's hands as long as his health permitted. He lived a beautiful, consistent, Christian life and passed triumphantly to his reward.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. E. Packard, a former pastor, assisted by Rev. A. A. Walsh. Prayer at the house was followed by a public service at the chapel, which was largely attended and included friends from Brunswick, Lynn and Palmer, Mass., also New York City. Amid a profusion of beautiful flowers he was laid to rest in the family lot on the Ridge, near the old church he loved so well.

Mr. Trussell leaves a wife, distant relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss. We shall sadly miss from our midst, his stately figure, his genial, smiling countenance, and his warm, hearty hand-clasp. Truly, he being dead, yet speaks. A wide circle of friends extend to the bereaved companion deepest sympathy in her great sorrow.

And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them. S. E. P.

FRANKLIN TRUSSELL A Tribute

Franklin Trussell, a prominent resident of Port Clyde, whose recent death at his home following a brief illness, was born in Port Clyde and educated in the public schools. On leaving school he engaged in business with his father, Capt. Samuel Trussell. Blessed with excellent health, thrift and industry, this was where he saved his first thousand dollars. He attended the Second Baptist Church, and later became a member of the K. P. Politically he was a Democrat. In all these different phases of life, he was held in the highest honor and respect by all who knew him, as a man of upright character and integrity. He is survived by a wife, Mrs. Alice Trussell, but no children. Mrs. Trussell is a lady of refinement and culture and enjoys the love and respect of the entire village. We who spend our summer vacations in that locality, can scarcely exaggerate the sorrow it will bring to many, many friends, that our good friend Frank is on the absent list. Kib

"Married Life" Not Worth While Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "tiny nervous system more happily married lives than any other cause."
Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Try the effect of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed, and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

SOUTH THOMASTON Mrs. Philip Ware entered Knox Hospital Monday for surgical treat- ment.

Mrs. Emily Rackliff celebrated her 89th birthday Dec. 2 at her home in South Thomaston. Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren to the number of 26 were present, as follows: Elmer Rackliff, Mrs. Nellie Waterman, Mrs. Mabel Richardson, Archie Rackliff, Mr. and Mrs. LaVon Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. David Mann, Ralph Rackliff, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Dyer, Raymond Rackliff, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waterman, Miss Emily Waterman, Robert Waterman, Francis Dyer, Irene Rackliff, Herbert Richardson, Lawrence Richardson, Mrs. Archie Rackliff, Maurice, Elsie and Lucy Rackliff, a brother Frank Foster, and Miss Grace Winchen. Mrs. Rackliff received many fine gifts, also cards and a handsome birthday cake. She is unusually active for one of her years and enjoyed the occasion to the fullest. The absence of Mrs. Philip Ware was regretted, she not being able to join the company.

The following from the Wakefield (Mass.) Journal will be of interest to many in this vicinity, friends and relatives of Mrs. F. H. Meader (Miss Florence Wiggin).

The bride's gown was of ivory tulle, crepe, fashioned in the new Princess style, her bridal veil of silk net and lace fastened by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of bride roses and valley lilies. Miss Spencer's gown was of rose-orchid tulle and tulle in bouffant pattern. She carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. The ushers' group comprised Leon A. Blanchard of Greenwood, brother of the bride; Nelson R. Shaw of Greenwood, and Calvin R. Stanley of Wakefield. About 100 guests were present at the ceremony and reception immediately following and a buffet supper was served by Caterer George S. Gratton.

The bride was graduated from the Wakefield High School in 1924 and from Boston University College of Practical Arts and Letters in 1926. She has been a prominent member among the younger folk at the Greenwood Union Church, Mr. Meader, proprietor of Meader's Garage, Malden, was formerly a student at the Melrose High School and was graduated from the Somerville Trade School. After a wedding trip to the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Meader will reside in Melrose.

An attractive autumnal wedding took place at the home of Selectman and Mrs. William Blanchard, 43 Pittman avenue, Greenwood, last evening, when their daughter, Miss Anne Blanchard and Frank Hallows Meader, Jr., of 135 Lynde street, Melrose, son of Capt. and Mrs. Frank H. Meader of Hampton, N. H., were united in marriage, the ceremony being solemnized by Rev. Charles H. Davis, pastor of the Greenwood Union Church, who used the double ring service. The ceremony took place beneath an illuminated arch which was banked with clusters of the season's flowers and foliage and from which was suspended a beautiful wedding bell. An unusual feature, just following the marriage ceremony occurred when the maid of honor, Miss Marion R. Spencer of Greenwood, and the best man, James E. Worthley of Greenwood, brother-in-law of the bride, released ribbons attached to the bell and showered the bride and bridegroom with rose petals. Miss Hazel Meader of Melrose, sister of the bridegroom, played Lohengrin's wedding march.

BURKETTVILLE Charlie Miller has been ill with grippe.

Linwood Mitchell was the fortunate hunter for moose in this vicinity, although several have been shot by out of town hunters. Schools reopened Monday after a week's vacation. The next Farm Bureau meeting will be held Dec. 11 at Newcomb, Calderwood's. It will be the annual planning meeting for both men and women, therefore it is earnestly desired that all members attend and help choose subjects for 1930. Miss Jessie Lawrence and Ralph Wentworth will be present. A picnic dinner will be served at noon. Robert Esancy and family spent Thanksgiving Day at Wilbur Esancy's in Union.

RAMBLES AFIELD

Here, There and Yonder,
Touching the Alluring
Things of Nature.

[Twenty-first Ramble]

Among the numerous weeds in my garden I have one which I think I mentioned some time ago and a correspondent suggested that it might be a creeping variety of veronica. On close examination with the aid of my old botany I think "veronica" is right but the plant and blossom are both so entirely different from our garden veronica that one may be readily excused for failing to recognize the species. Indeed, I am not even yet positive that I am correct in my analysis, but I am sure of this—that it is one of the daintiest little plants that was ever classed in the category of weeds.

At first glance the plant resembles nepeta, ground ivy, Jill-over-the-ground,—choose which name you like best, and there are several more, but this weed of mine has smaller leaves and blossoms, has no pronounced fragrance, and is different in other ways also. At present—November 18th—it is as green as in midsummer and is full of blossoms after heavy frosts. I mean to try a root of it in a hanging pot in my window for it is too pretty to be buried in snow all winter, though its tiny blossoms are less than one-fourth inch in diameter.

A correspondent writes me that she potted an Indian turnip last winter and had a beautiful blossom from it, with which she was so pleased that she has now repotted it for the coming winter. Last fall I laid a cluster of the red berries in a flower pot and in a few weeks I had an abundance of little "Jacks" coming up all over the pot. These I have planted in a row in my garden and hope to have an army of them next summer.

Until you have viewed some tiny blossom—dogbane for instance—through a magnifying glass you can hardly imagine the pleasure we miss each day by not really seeing things, or by giving them only a casual glance. Viewed through a glass the little dogbane blossom reminds one of a gorgeous gloriole, and by the way, I find that most persons, have the idea that glorioles are difficult to grow. This is a mistake; any one can grow them if they will only remember never to let the seeds dry out after planting them. The best way is to cover the seed box with a pane of glass to keep the moisture in. I raised some in this way and sent a friend a little capsule of seeds from just one blossom. The next summer when I visited her I counted over sixty thrifty plants all raised from that one stem of seeds and nearly all were budded, ready to bloom, some already showing color.

I have friends who complain that they "have no luck" raising perennials from seeds. Now I have learned from experience that nearly all perennials are much longer in germinating than annuals; hence the amateur gets impatient and decides that they are not coming, so she sets out other plants in the place where she planted seeds, and straightway forgets all about them. When I want to be sure of raising perennials from seeds I have found that the best way is to plant the seeds in a box with a label at the end of each row, then keep the box covered with glass to conserve moisture and after the seedlings get their second or third leaves transplant them to a permanent position in the garden.

Treated in this way most perennials are as easily grown as annuals, though I often have to wait from three to six weeks for the little plants to come through the ground and there are some that occasionally delay germination even a year or so. The primula japonica is one of these and by the way, that word "japonica" has caused more mix-ups in the mind of amateurs than any other word I know. It is really the botanical word for "Japan" and has the same significance when used as a flower term as the plain word "Japanese" would have, therefore Primula japonica means Japanese Primula. I sometimes read in works of fiction how some one goes into the conservatory to see if the japonicas have blossomed, which is just as absurd as if I were to go into my garden to see if the "Americas" have bloomed.

As nearly as I can learn, when the camellia was first introduced here from Japan, it was called "Camellia japonica" so the generality of flower lovers inferred that Japonica was its name and camellia was the descriptive word telling what kind of a japonica it was. They had not then become accustomed to the botanical method of twisting the terms about so that "the last became first and the first became last," so they fell into a very natural error. In looking over catalogues you will often see this much misunderstood word "Japonica" attached to flower names and it always means that we got that plant from Japan.

So with some of the flower names which seem so long and complicated. On studying into the matter you will see that the last name, instead of being the name of the flower, is an adaptation from the name of some man in whose honor the plant was named. We often see plants named for the seedsman, John Lewis Childs, the last name being "Childs." In the case of Anthemis Kewleyi, the plant is named in honor of Mr. Kewley, and so on indefinitely.

MAINE INTERESTED

What It Hopes To Accomplish From This New Session of Congress

Maine has a number of irons in the fire so far as the new Congress is concerned.

Senator Hale and Representative Beedy will fight for the bill appropriating $50,000 to rebuild the burned barracks at Fort McKinley. Senator Hale also has in a bill which would permit the Secretary of War to transfer to the State of Maine the remaining portion of old Fort McClary, a plot of 1.87 acres. Hale and Beedy will again try to get for Maine a refund of a part of the Federal appropriation for the Kittery-Portsmouth bridge. This bill got through the House last year but failed in the Senate through objection of Senator King of Utah.

Representative White has introduced his five-year fish station construction bill, in the third year of which Maine is slated for a $35,000 fish station. Maine will also benefit by the general provisions of the bill, which will encourage fish production, marketing and utilization of fish waste.

Maine will probably get another allotment of money for public buildings out of the two hundred million dollars authorized a couple of years ago for a ten-year program.

Representative Nelson usually has an early battle with the agricultural sub-committee of the Appropriations committee for money for blueberries, fighting against the blueberry maggot being the principal point at issue just now and very much in the limelight, with the seizure in New York recently of 400 cases of blueberries under the Federal Pure Food and Drugs Act.

There will be the usual grist of bridge bills and requests for surveys of Maine rivers and harbors, though there is talk of Hoover's cutting out the proposed appropriation of a hundred million dollars for rivers and harbors.

The Maine delegation will be busy with their committees. Hale, chairman of the Maine delegation, is chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs committee, and may even get the chairmanship of the appropriation committee, through the shake-up incident to the death of Senator Warren of Wyoming, late chairman of appropriations. Hale is chairman of the naval sub-committee of the appropriations committee and a member of the committees on manufacture, rules and expenditures in the executive departments.

Senator Gould is a member of the committees on agriculture, commerce, District of Columbia, immigration and public buildings and grounds.

Representative White is chairman of the committee on merchant marine and fisheries and a member of the committee on education and pensions.

Representative Beedy is chairman of Election Committee No. 1 and a member of the committee on banks and currency, insular affairs and expenditures in the executive departments.

Representative Nelson is a member of the interstate and foreign commerce committee.

Representative Snow, who is a new member, having succeeded former Representative Hersey, has not yet been assigned to a committee.

holiday and the remainder of the week with his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Monaghan.

A successful surprise serenade was given Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kallach Allen, newlyweds at Morris hall Nov. 25. As it was Mr. Allen's birthday his mother had invited relatives from Rockland to a dinner with the usual birthday cake etc. The guests arrived and were all seated in the dining room when he and his wife appeared. This was quite a surprise but just as soon as the dinner was over in walked Alfred Hocking, Albert Slingsby, John Reid, James Cant, and Mabel Wilson and told Henry and his bride to get some warm clothing as they were going to a cold climate and strange were the costumes prepared for them. They were then given a ride over town with tin cans and placards on the car after which they were landed at Morris hall where 150 guests were ready to help celebrate.

A mock wedding was in order and musical readings were given by Mrs. Beulah Rokes Ames of Rockland. Ice cream and cake were served and a general good time followed. The gifts included a pair of pink and white blankets and a remarkable bed spread, presented by "the bunch." Another blanket and spread, a damask table cloth and a dozen dinner napkins to match and numerous gifts in silver and electric appliances. They also received some substantial cash gifts with more to follow. Credit is due Mildred Slingsby and Mabel Wilson and their assistants, Mrs. Cant and Mrs. Reid for the success of the affair. About 25 relatives and friends of the bride from Rockland were present.

Whitney L. Wheeler has been at home the past week from U. of M.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Carey of Marblehead, Mass., motored here

Wednesday and were Thanksgiving guests of H. F. Kallach and family. They returned home Sunday.

C. E. Wheeler is out again after being confined to the house for several days with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patterson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wilson and son Ralph Thanksgiving Day.

ORFF'S CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. Ormand Hopkins and daughter Marian of Tenant's Harbor and Mrs. James Hall of Elmore were Thanksgiving Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skidgel of Sabattus are with their son Calvin Bragg for the winter.

Mrs. Carolyn Achorn is ill and her mother Mrs. Annie Orff is caring for her.

Sunday visitors at W. A. Jackson's included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur

Roman and family of Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry de Rochemont and family of Rockland, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jackson and son Raymond of Waldoboro, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Prock and Mrs. Herman Prock of Winslow's Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Walter and daughter Ruth of Gardiner spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Walter.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Orff and son Arthur have returned to Nashua after passing the week here. Mr. Orff spent the week in hunting and brought down a large moose.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Earle returned to Auburn Friday after spending the week at P. R. Ludwig's.

NORTH WASHINGTON

Bill Dennison and Milton Tripp of Bath were in this vicinity on a day's hunting trip last week. Dennison got a shot at a deer but missed. It will be remembered they were here last season, when one of them saw a chickadee and the other a moose.

Mr. Squires of Bath shot a medium sized moose one morning last week within 100 yards of the residence of Rex Prescott, just across the Washington line in Liberty.

Forest Chapman shot a fine deer in Palermo recently.

While a number of deer have been shot in town, with one exception (that of George Lenfest) none have been shot here.

Forrest Lessner, of this place, died early Saturday morning, the result of a severe shock. Always a resident of this town, a man who attended

Stops Hang-On Coughs

A neglected cough can lead to a lot of trouble. But if you use Adamson's Balsam the first thing—there's no danger.

The first dose relaxes strained throat muscles, breaks up, and expels phlegm and heals irritated membrane. That stops the coughing. With that over—the other ingredients, acting through blood attack the germs at seat of trouble and in a day or two all danger is gone. Temperature, the tyrant!—long has he ruled the motor world. But his day is done—here comes Colonial Wintergas—double-quick!

That means just what it says. Fussy, fretty starting—spitting, spluttering getaway—are gone. This remarkable new fuel reproduces summer conditions double-quick—even at zero!

Two special refining processes are what do it. The first prevents the most volatile elements from escaping. The second insures the elimination of the heavy "kerosene borderland" parts. Both are more effective because the crude is specially selected to begin with. Sounds incredible? All we say is "Try it!" Colonial Wintergas is on tap at all Colonial pumps, and will tell its own story—double-quick starting and getaway.
